Message from the Dean

Dear Students,

It is with a great pleasure to welcome you to the College of Law.

The legal profession is changing rapidly and significantly from what was traditional legal practice to a more digital transformational of legal professions, together with globalization, and change of social requirements. Therefore, the College of Law strives to provide its students with the necessary knowledge and skills preparing them to adapt to change and ensure that they are equipped with right knowledge and skills that fulfil the requirements of employability in the legal sector in the Kingdom of Bahrain and the region.

The College offers a range of Law programmes to suit various ambitions and career opportunities in the legal arena. The College offers the following degree programmes at both the Undergraduate and Postgraduate levels, namely the Bachelor in Law, the Master in Law and the Master in Commercial Law. These programmes are recognized by the Higher Education Council in the Kingdom of Bahrain and have achieved full confidence by the Bahrain Education and Training Quality Authority (BQA). Starting from the academic year of 2022/2023, the College will start offering a Bachelor degree in English (LLB (Hons) Law), which is awarded by London South Bank University in the UK. This programme will provide a unique opportunity for students to obtain an internationally recognized UK Degree and have a major competitive advantage in the Bahraini as well as the regional and international labor markets.

The College offers a friendly, enjoyable learning environment, with state-of-the-art facilities and resources. The academic staff of the college are highly experienced and offer distinguished academic support to their students from admission to graduation.

We strongly believe that the future of ASU's law graduates is bright and we are committed to promote excellence and values in education, research and community engagement.

I welcome you again to the College of Law and I invite you to visit the college webpage on the ASU website to find more information about the offered programmes and the college activities.

Dean of the College of Law

College Vision:

The College of Law seeks to be a locally and regionally distinguished center in research, legal study, and the provision of outstanding and capable graduates.

College Mission:

The College of Law seeks to promote a professional legal culture characterised by the legal skills and abilities of its graduates, which will enable them to access the labour market with adequate and appropriate capabilities. The college also seeks to spread awareness of legal culture among citizens locally and regionally in order to establish a community and state of law, including institutions, where people know their rights and duties.

College Objectives:

1. Form legal personality and develop legal awareness among students.
2. Expand opportunities for students in all areas and expand their scientific understanding by using the latest educational technology and methods.
3. Build links between the theoretical study and practical application of law through a variety of educational methods within the university, and through internships and practical training outside the university.
4. Establish close ties among students and faculty members through educational and academic supervision in order to create opportunities to enhance the student culture and awareness.
5. Promote cooperation between the university and the local community and provide access to the local community through training, continuing education, seminars, lectures, and conferences.
6. Contribute to develop Bahraini laws and the laws of the states of the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC).
7. Encourage scientific research and provide in-depth scientific studies to serve the Kingdom of Bahrain and the Gulf Cooperation Council.
8. Provide the Kingdom of Bahrain and the Gulf Cooperation Council with legal qualified cadres to meet the needs of the labor market.

The module seeks to explore the workings of these areas of torts with exploration of the underlying legal, social and economic policies. In addition, this module is also designed to reinforce 3Ls.

Public & EU Law

The purpose of this module is to develop further students' understandings of the nature of constitutional arrangements in the UK with a focus on the sovereignty especially in relation to membership of the EU (with the theme connecting the two being the dilemmas thrown up by the dilemmas of sovereignty both internally and externally and the continuing need for governmental supremacy).

Criminal Law 1

Criminal law is one of the core modules required by the professional bodies within a qualifying law degree. The module is designed to introduce students to the basic principles of criminal liability and seeks to explore statutory and common law sources on which the law is based.

EU Rights

The module looks at the impact of EU law on the English Legal System and some of the important and rights granted by EU law. EU law is one of the seven subjects covering the academic stage of legal education "Foundations of Legal Knowledge" leading to the vocational stage for intending practitioners. The module is at level 5. This Module runs across one semester.

Working in the Law

The module provides students with an insight into the procedural and practical application of the law, an opportunity to develop transferable and practical skills in the context of their career development. It will make them think about different kinds of legal work and offer them an opportunity to reflect on their knowledge, develop and practice their skills and gain experience that they will need to acquire in order to pursue the career of their choice. It will assist them in making, reviewing and implementing their career plan. Students will be encouraged and supported in gaining practical work experience in furtherance of the development of their career plan alongside the module.

Criminal Law 2 and the Law of Criminal Evidence

This module is designed to build upon the basic principles of criminal liability that students have studied in ‘Criminal Law 1’ Module and demonstrates how the rules of evidence apply to the Criminal Law, while considering some more complex areas of the Criminal Law.

Property Equity and Trusts 1

The module introduces students to property law (including Land law), equity and trusts. Students study some basic property law topics, focusing upon the creation, transfer and management of property interests. Key legal, transferable and practical skills are developed. At the same time, the module explores the economic and social basis of property law in business and the family, and the reasons for and policies behind the law. Assessment is by means of a part seen examination. The module also prepares students seeking a qualifying law degree for the further study of Property Equity and Trusts 2 and Land Law.

Consumer Protection & The Law

This module aims:

- To provide students with a thorough grounding in the general principles of consumer protection;
- To enable students to engage in contemporary debate relating to consumer law, its development and reform;
- To enable students to comprehend the integration in practice of previously studied law “subjects”;
- To enable students to analyze and evaluate the UK and EU framework for the protection of consumers’ interests;
- To appreciate the significance of the social, economic and political context within which the law operates.

The module further examines selected aspects of consumer protection policy and practice to illustrate issues including:

- the implementation of policy goals through the interplay of legal control, voluntary self-regulation and enforcement practice.
- the roles of various national, local and international stakeholders both governmental and non-governmental.
- enforcement policies, protocols and practices.
- alternative models of legislative control e.g. principled and specific and protection strategies e.g. before and after the event. Evolving use of harmonization.
- the complementary deployment of civil (regulatory and compensatory) and criminal law “remedies”.

- The role and impact of extra-legal responses..

Comparative Law – Legal Traditions of the World

In this module, students study key concepts of major legal systems in the world – Arabic, Chinese, Civil Law and Common Law. They explore basic underlying philosophies and methods of each legal system and a selection of current topics of debate such as law making & judicial decision making, contract law, crime and punishment, human rights & the relationship between the individual and society, along with medical law. This allows them to analyze and evaluate the similarities and differences of approach between such different legal systems. Students then choose one of these topics for an oral presentation researching, analyzing and evaluating the law and proposals for reform in the light of different approaches between two or more of these major world legal systems.

Property Equity and Trusts 2

This module is designed on the ‘Property Equity and Trusts 1’ Module, in particular its introduction to Equity and Trusts, to fulfil the study of these topics required by the legal professional bodies as a foundation subject of a qualifying law degree. Students examine the trust and equity in action by considering the powers and duties of trustees, and the control exercised by the courts over them at the behest of beneficiaries (or in the case of charity trustees, the Attorney-General and the Charity Commissioners). Special attention is given to the role of trustees in the management of charities and co-owned land among numerous other examples of the role played by trustees in business life, such as in pension funds, investments, and as personal representatives.

Business Law

This module builds on student learning in Levels 4 and 5, and critically examines key aspects of business law principles. A transactional approach is adopted which emphasizes how contracts are used in a business environment when goods and services are bought and sold. This involves considering the appropriate type of business organization to use, buying or selling through agents, international sale contracts, protecting the transaction through insurance and business failure.

International Protection of Human Rights

In this course, students examine the international protection of human rights in the context of specific countries and themes. Lectures will introduce students to key topics, such as the UN procedures and human rights activism. Students will then research these topics in the context of a specific country (such as Myanmar, Nigeria and Pakistan) and theme (such as Fair Trial, Free Speech and Torture). Seminar discussion will be based on students’ research on their selected country and theme. There will be an emphasis on developing effective strategies for combating human rights abuses. Assessment is carried out by a single piece of Coursework.

Company Law

This module is designed to give students an understanding of the development of some of the fundamental principles relating to company law. It examines the nature of a company, company structures, management and ownership, capital structures and shareholder remedies. The course takes into account the impact of the EU legal framework and current company law reform proposals.

Criminal Litigation

The module examines key areas in the criminal litigation process, from arrest and charge, to trial, appeal and sentencing, including:

- the roles of key personnel and organizations in the criminal justice system;
- the funding of criminal matters by the Legal Services Commission/Criminal Defense Service;
- human rights issues;
- the rules of client care & professional conduct in criminal cases;
- an introduction to criminal evidence;
- the law and practice of criminal advocacy; and
- the special considerations that apply to young offenders under the age of 18.

Land Law

This module is designed to build on the students' knowledge and understanding of Property Law and Equity & Trusts. The module covers the principles of English Land Law, sources, development, application and reforms.

The Law Project

(International Business Law OR Comparative Law topic)

The project gives students an opportunity to carry out an extended and independent research in an area of their choice relating to substantive English law. Normally, a student will not be allowed to choose a topic that has been taught in detail on the degree. There are three pieces of assessed work, which count towards the final project mark. A project supervisor is allocated to each student once the student has selected a project area.

Employment Law

This module critically examines the law directly governing the employment relationship including both the contract of employment and statutory regulations. It is concerned primarily with key issues and basic principles, and the application of the law in the workplace. Employment law is a complex and expanding area of study constantly changing. In addition to original legal materials such as statutes and cases, seminar readings are drawn from academic literature, official documents and case studies.

Civil Litigation

The module examines key areas in the civil litigation process, from pre-action steps and issue of claim to trial and appeal, including:

- the ethos of modern civil litigation.
- human rights issues.
- civil litigation funding.
- the central role of the civil procedure rules.
- rules of professional conduct in civil litigation cases.
- case management by the courts.
- offers to settle.
- alternative dispute resolution.
